

Professional Statement

My name is Steven. I recently earned a degree in Computer Science and am passionate about cybersecurity and protecting systems from threats. I enjoy working with technology, solving technical problems, and learning how systems work behind the scenes. I'm currently building hand-on experience through cybersecurity labs and coursework in areas like network security, Linux permission, and incident response. I am actively looking for an entry-level role where I can apply my technical skills, continue to grow, and help organizations stay safe and secure.
